NOT SURPRISINGLY. . .

. . .This newspaper asks area support in finding material previously unpublished about Milam County from the pre-Texas era of the 1700s to the 1900s.

Yes, we're hoping to put together a Bicentennial edition sometime in July. We've not undertaken a compilation history features since the Centennial Herald of 1960.

We frankly are concentrating on the future, see a need to feature the 200 years of Central Texas history that starts with the Spanish settlement in the San Gabriel area dating about 1740.

When we include tha t period of northern migration of Spanish priests and soldiers, perhaps the northernmost in this part of Texas, we predate the Revolution, but not the Colonial period of New England and Southeast Southern States.

We ask your interest and support in this undertaking at as fast a pace possible in contacting news department people here with maerial, pictures, and documentations

We spent more than a year on the Herald Centennial paper. We allow ourselves about six weeks on this one, because we think readers will help us develop the material from their records and libraries.

117-117-117

Bicentennially speaking, I was invited to attend the premier showing of Presidential China one evening a weekend ago by Lady Bird Johnson for Friends of LBJ Library, Austin.

Samples of Presidential China throughout the 200 years of White House administrations are on display just off the Great hall of the enormous library at the Austin campus of The University of Texas.

There also were presentations from other Presidential libraries and centers from the Coolidge Administration through Kennedy.

The building houses all the papers of the Lyndon Johnson Administration and represents one of the largest centers of Presidential academia outside Washington.

Too often, people think of libraries as places for books, not people. But the way this library employs the latest in technical devices to illustrate Johnson's years in Washington renders obsolete any old concepts of libraries.

It is a fascinating place to see China, the personality, performance, and papers of a President or an impressive view of Austin.

Ambulance District Eyed

It looks like there will be an election for an ambulance district in two of Milam County's precincnts after funeral home directors said they cannot grant an extension on their June 15 cutoff date for service.

The election would call for a special tax to be levied in Precincts 1 and 2, with money being used for the ambulance service. Other parts of the county are covered by other services at this time.

Discussion of the election came at a meeting Monday of County Judge O. B. Harden, city councilman Gene Lumpkin, and funeral home directors Mrs. Kay Green, Bill Burns, and Ed Laywell.

Laywell said a subsidy to the funeral homes is not the answer to the problem, and would just postpone the inevitable. Burns said they were definitely getting out on June 15.

Laywell said it would cost from $50,000 to $60,000 a year to operate ambulance service, paying minimum wage to crews for 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Laywell said the directors had done the driving themselves, so could not really give a true picture.

Lumpkin asked what was to be done between June 15 and the election, and Harden said he was sure other services--those in Rockdale, Thorndale, Rosebud, and Hearne, would help out in an emergency.

Laywell said the funeral homes would donate their ambulances to be used, but if they were not used, they would be sold.

Harden said just raising county taxes would not be the answer, as by law, 56 percent of county taxes collected automatically go to the precinct road and bridge funds. Harden said he could not remember the last time county taxes were raised, but they would have to be raised in the future to continue county government. He said taxes paid in the ambulance district would go strictly toward ambulance service.

The group figures that it may cost $80,000 or $90,000 a year to operate two ambulances in north Milam, with the city of Cameron absorbing some of the cost. Harden pointed out that if the county contributed to the ambulance service, it would have to also pay Rockdale and Thorndale matching amounts.

Harden said he believed in letting the people vote on such an issue, and decide how badly the are a needs ambulances.

MEMORIAL DAY service was held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Monday morning on the courthouse lawn. A mock grave was in evidence, decorated with flowers, in memory of the Nation's war dead. The organization makes this a yearly event, with the Ladies Auxiliary also taking part.

Worship Service July 4 To Mark Bicentennial Year

It'll never happen again--not in your lifetime, that is--July 4th comes on Sunday this Bicentennial Year. For the Tricentennial, July 4 will come on Saturday--if you live that long!

Realizing the importance of the church in the background of our Nation, the Bicentennial Committee has asked the Cameron Ministers Association to hold a Bicentennial worship service. This will be held on July 4 at 8 p.m. in the Yoe High football stadium.

The whole community is invited to participate in the service. The National Guard, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign wars, Girl Scouts, and Boy Scouts are being asked to participate in the celebration.

Bands will play, banners will fly, and the community will salute its flags and sing "Texas Our Texas," as part of the ceremony.

Speaker for the occasion will be Chaplain Kenneth Thompson of Carswell Air Force Base near Fort Worth.

Practice sessions for the community choir have been set for June 20 and 27 at 3 p.m. at the First Baptist Church. All who like to sing even in the least are invited to join so that a 150-member choir can be heard at the celebration.

Short Ballot Seen For Saturday Runoff

The ballot for the Democratic Primary runoff election Saturday will be a short one, but nevertheless important to Milam voters.

Precinct 1 voters will chose between incumbent County Commissioner Adolph Gresak and challenger Mrs. Albert Evelyn Abel.

Two constable runoffs are on the ballot, with Maurice Lowery and H. T. "Tommy" Chamberlain seeking election to Precinct 1; and Rex B. Jones and Griss Wells vying for constable of Precinct 2.

Running for the Democratic nomination to the powerful Texas Railroad Commission are Jon Newton, former member of the Texas House of Representatives, and Jerry Sadler, also a former House member and who was once Land Commissioner as well as once Railroad Commission member. Newton is 35, Sadler 68.

In the only other contested statewide race, also in the Democratic column, Carl Dally of Austin faces W. T. Phillips of Waco for a spot on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m., with voting place the same as in the May primary election.

Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale this week reminded voters that they have a great responsibility to return to the polling place this Saturday and cast a vote in runoff elections.

"A person's vote is both a privilege and a duty," he said. "This is the opportunity for people who want to have a say in government--and at every level of government, too--to make their voices heard."

A sample ballot appears on Page 2 of this edition, for Buckholts voters. Other ballots will include candidates for Constable, Precinct 1; and Constable, Precinct 2.

Museum Group Meets Thursday

The Milam County Historical Commission will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday, June 3 at the County Courthouse in Cameron to amend the constitution and set up grounds and building committees for the county museum.

Any citizen in Milam County who is interested in establishing the Milam County museum is invited to attend the meeting.

Miss mary Belle Batte is president of the historical commission.

Summer Rec Proposal Dies; Council Hears Fund Request

An applicant for a summer recreation program director turned down the city's offer of $200 salary for four weeks, as the city council heard a request from the Little League Association for funds to help run that program.

Jeff Smitherman of Cameron came before council and proposed a summer rec program similar to those held in the past, but said he would need the money paid for handling Little League umpires and field maintenance for his summer job.

William Kelm, president of Little League, said he had already lined up someone to handle the league's field maintenance and umpires--he had to before the season started.

The summer rec program would pay $200 for four weeks, and if the other job went with it this would add $300 to the salary.

Kelm asked for $600 to pay for umpires and maintenance of the fields. He said United Fund had helped in the past but no funds have been allocated from the 1975 drive. Council moved to give him the funds if none are received from United Fund.

In other business council agreed that Code Inspector Ed Bigbee should put copies of the building code around town as permits are required for making building repairs, in addition to new construction.

St Supt. Walter Wallace was instructed to have a reserve operator for the city maintaniner trained to relieve the present operator who is the only one who can run the maintainer.

Council discussed curbing from the railroad underpass to the city limits, to be in stalled in conjunction with a highway renovation program. City Atty. Ed Magre is to look into the legal aspects of an assessement program for the work.

Councilman Gene Lumpkin reported that no progress had been made in discussions with the county on ambulance service. He said if the city operates the service on a 50-50 basis, the county should pay Cameron $40,000 a year. No action was taken.

Councilman Lincoln Mondrik earlier had said he wanted to discuss the dog problem, but the council wouldn't enforce the ordinance so he would skip it. Later, Councilwoman Jan Luecke asked Mondrik about the situation and said the present council is interested in doing something about the problem.

Mondrik agreed to present a program to the council at the next meeting, with recommendations on using a cage pickup and improving security at the dog pound.

Councilman Monroe Fuchs was authorized to pick up two oak trees at $72.50 each to replace two dead trees on the mall.

Near Misses?

Jimmy Carter and President Gerald Ford now both have more than 800 delegates in their respective primary races for party nomination.

Three primary contests in Rhode Island, South Dakota, and Montana added inconclusive numbers to those totals, compelling further emphasis on the outcome of the California and Ohio primaries in both parties next week.

California Governor Jerry Brown carried a plurality win in Rhode Island over Carter, demonstrating a striking ability to win uncommitted delegates. Frank Church carried in Montana and Carter in South Dakota.

Ford carried in Rhode Island, Ronald Reagan in the other GOP primary states.

It is all heading for a showdown at the convention, though Brown carries in California over Carter and Reagan struggles to a winner-take-all triumph over the incumbent he challenges.

The uncommitted votes quite likely will decide who gets any first-ballot nomination. Reagan, Ford, and Carter all claim first-ballot prospects this summer, Carter not quite as certain since Nebraska, Maryland, Michigan, and Oregon.

The Carter plurality steamroller is going soft, just about the time he sees 1,250 delegates prior to the convention.

It takes another 255 to nominate. And the Church-Udall-Brown-uncommitted contingent yet hold out for an open convention.

It appears likely both conventions will have near-miss first-ballot nominations if Reagan gets California and does well in Ohio.

The Runoff Primary...

The Saturday , June 5, Democratic runoff primary is important in two constable and one precinct commissioner races, other than contests for Texas Railroad Commission and Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Such a primary vote is predictably light. The Railroad commissioner's job is far more than a state regulatory, post since Texas has so much oil production still under this authority.

We already have pointed to Jon Newton as our choice in the runoff over Jerry Sadler, former commissioner member more than 30 years ago and former Texas land commissioner, whose performance brought him censure from the Texas Legislature.

The Herald makes no recommendations in the precinct races nor for the unexpired term sought on Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

We trust voters will turn out in enough numbers to give these candidates a representative backing rather than a inconclusive vote.

The important thing is to go to the polls Saturday.

Briscoe Drafts Teacher Pay Raise

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has directed drafting of a $525 million cost-of-living pay raise proposal which treats school teachers and other state employees alike and calls for no local school contributions.

It would provide a 6.8 per cent a year salary boost—far short of the big jump to the "national average" teachers had been recommending.

Texas State Teachers Association spokesmen called the governor's plan "disappointing." Federation of Teachers representatives used stronger criticism: "ludicrous and insignificant." (Starting teachers would get a $544 a year raise).

Texas Public Employees Association, whose goals are in line with those outlined by Briscoe, were delighted.

"It's a realsitic plan that meets the cost of living increase," said a TPEA representative.

"It does not do much to help the teacher salary situation compounded over the years. Texas teachers are 24th in the nation in pay," said TSTA Executive Secretary Calliew W. Smith.

Briscoe ordered that the state provide all funds for both the state employees and teachers, relieving local school districts of any further tax burden for salaries.

Road Program Approved

Texas Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved a $20.8 million program for improving 283.7 miles of Farm and Ranch to Market roads in Texas.

The 1976 program includes new construction of 168.8 miles, provides additional financing for 86.8 miles previously authorized and finances 28.1 miles of projects previously authorized but not funded.

A total of 152.2 miles are new designations of which 87.6 miles are now on rural mail routes and 86.8 miles are included in school bus routes.

Projects and priorities were determined after consultation by TDHPT and county commissioners courts.

Candidates To Visit

Top Democratic presidential candidates will be in Texas June 17 for a fund-raising event on eve of the state party's convention.

Active candidates Jimmy Carter, Morris Udall, Franck Church and Jerry Brown and non-candidate Hubert Humphrey have accepted invitations to the "Salute to Bob Strauss" event honoring the Democratic National Committee chairman in Houston.

Democrats, convening June 18-19, will name 32 more delegates to the Democratic National Convention, 70 alternate delegates and seven members of the Democratic National Committee.

Courts Speak

Corpus Christi House candidate Abel Chapa was turned down by the State Supreme Court in an effort to substitute his name for that of Dr. Arnold Gonzalez on the June 5 Democratic runoff ballot.

The high court directed another trial in the case of a Dallas man claiming the wrong diagnosis by a physician resulted in his losing $40,000 in insurance for an injury to his back.

A young Houston mother who says she signed documents relinquishing her parental rights to see her baby without understanding what she was doing won a hearing before the Supreme Court.

Third Court of Civil Appeals ordered trial of a former paper company employee's suit for $76,000 on allegations that caustic products he was required to spray on paper caused skin damage.

Court of Criminal Appeals directed a reduction in bail for a dental lab student in a Waco burglary case.

AG Opinions

Cameron County can fix reasonable tolls and fees for use of its international bridge, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

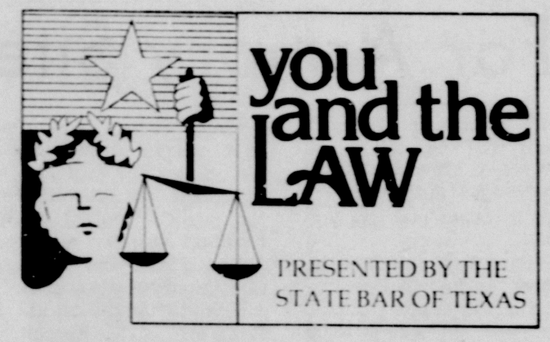
—A constable or sheriff may require indemnity bond from the demanding officer before levying on personal property to satisfy tax judgment.

—Records maintained by a district clerk pertaining to a suit seeking termination of a parent-child relationship are not confidential unless the court orders the case file sealed. A court has discretion to control public access to records when justice requires.

Appointments

Gov. Dolph Briscoe named Dr. John Gray, Lamar University president, Beaumont, as Texas representative on the Board of Control for Southern Regional Education.

Charles Robert Richardson is new president of Sul Ross State University.



Q: The owner of our duplex has put it up for sale. Our lease is not up for three more months. Could we be asked to leave, or be asked to pay more rent, if the duplex is sold before our lease expires?

A: The new owner of your duplex could not terminate your lease or change the lease unless the terms of the lease give that right to the new owner. You should check your lease to determine whether it automatically terminates if the property is sold. If your lease contains no language concerning sale of the duplex, your lease can be terminated only if the owner defaults on mortgage payments and the mortgage holder has to foreclose the property.

Q: I've been divorced for three years, and my ex-husband has provided no child support during the last two years. Can my new husband adopt my child?

A: State law sets out two requirements to be met before your former husband's parental rights can be terminated, to allow your new husband to adopt your child. First, the court must find that your former husband has not contributed to the support of the child for at least one year. . . . The court cannot terminate the former husband's parental rights if you have refused his child support payments, or if he is physically unable to make the child support payments. Additionally, the court must also determine that taking away your former husband's parental rights and adoption of your child by your new husband would be in the best interest of your child.

Q: A neighbor is having problems with his son. Can he have his son placed in detention at the juvenile court?

A: The laws governing detention of juveniles are very restrictive. No child may be detained for longer than 48 hours without a detention hearing, and the practice is to have the hearing as soon after the referral as is practical. If the child has a responsible parent, guardian or other custodian and is not likely to run away, then the child must be released. In the event a child is detained, the child must be represented by an attorney, the cost of which becomes the responsibility of the parent.

Q: If I will my property to my married daughter, will it be her separate property or will it be owned jointly by her and her husband?

A: Under Texas law, if she survives you it would become her separate property, and her husband would have no right to it as long as your daughter is alive. However, when your daughter dies, unless she leaves a will that provides otherwise, her surviving husband and her children would share your property; or if your daughter had no children or other close relatives, her surviving husband would likely get most, if not all, of your property.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to people who're supposed to know gasoline prices will go up this summer because, they say, of the law of supply and demand but it's probably also because of some people's knowledge of human nature. You have a car packed full of fishing gear, picnic supplies, swim suits and kids and the folks with gas to sell know a jump of five cents a gallon isn't going to hold you back. They understand children.

After all, somebody put all those highways out there and you know people feel an irresistible obligation to not let them go to waste.

This brings me to the energy problem and how to solve it. So far, about all the thinkers have come up with is conservation. Stop using so much gasoline, they say. Cut down on your driving. They mean business. Why, there are people so concerned over the waste of fuel they'll ride one-to-a-car going to a meeting to protest people going to work one-to-a-car.

In earlier times, when people rode horses, they'd be protesting because people weren't riding double. This wasteful use of cats has got to stop.

Let's face it, this is the automobile age where people are going to get in their cars and go where they want to, to work, to play, or wherever, until the earth is pumped dry of oil, and the answer is to find something besides gasoline that'll run the thing.

Electricity is the answer. Now I don't understand the stuff. I can understand how you can send water or oil through a pipe but I don't understand how you can send electricity down a wire when it hasn't even got a hole in it. And I don't know what the stuff is. All I know is that if you can turn a generator, it'll turn out electricity. Where it comes from I don't Where it comes from I don't know but it doesn't use up our resources, other than our money, and you don't have to dig, strip-mine, or drill for it. Environmentalists would wither from lack of something to do if everything, including cars, ran on electricity.

And that's my point. We've got to invent a method of broadcasting electricity to a moving vehicle, whether a car an airplane, a ship, a train, a motorboat, or a motorscooter, with the electricity coming, of course, from a pollution-free source like the sun. Storing it in batteries won't work. On, I guess you could load a plane down with enough batteries to lift it off te ground, if you had a small pilot and no passengers.

Some people will say it can't be done, you can't broadcast electricity to a car, but if man can send color television pictures through television pictures by air, whycan't he send electricity isn't colored. . . I don't think.

Yours faithfuly,
J. A.

Newton Faces Sadler In Railroad Commission Runoff

AUSTIN

Rep. Jon Newton of Beeville says the central issue in his Democratic race for the Texas Railroad Commission this Saturday, June 5, is which of the two candidates is better qualified to cope with modern energy and transportation problems.

"If the voters compare my public record with the record of Jerry Sadlee, I have no doubt that I will win Saturday," declared the 34-year old attorney, who is a member of the Governor's Energy Advisory Council and the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Newton and Sadler, 68, emerged as runoff opponents from an eight-candidate field in the first primary. Sadler has been in retirement since his defeat for State Land Commissioner in 1970.

"My public record is one of accessibility to the press, an open door policy for the public, full disclosure of personal financial information, and policies to strengthen confidence in government," Newton said. "My opponent's record is just the opposite. When he was Land Commissioner in the 1960s he pulled down the shades of the General Land Office and excluded the press and the public. He made a mockery of the people's right to know what goes on in government."

Newton pointed out that Sadler's defeat six years ago followed an official reprimand by the House of Representatives for refusing to cooperate in an investigation of his handling of Spanish treasure discovered off the coast.

Newton said that Sadler had the worst absentee record of any state official. "He was drawing a full-time salary, spending a few hours a week on the job, and apparently spending the rest of his time running his private motor hotel in Palestine," Newton added.

Blakey, a native of Savoy, joined TP&L in 1961 as a customer service representative in Irving. He later served as manager in McGregor and Garland and as district manager in Richardson.

In addition to his work in numerous civi c and professional organizations in the Dallas Metropolitan area, Root is chairman of the National Association of Electric Companies' Ad Hoc Committee on Strip Mining and vice-chairman of the Edison Electric Institute Communications Committee. He is a past-president of the Texas Tech Ex-Students Association

Cong. Poage Surprises Officials

WASHINGTON

State Department officials who handle financial arrangements for congressmen traveling abroad must have been surprised when they recently opened a letter and found a pile of foreign currency.

An accompaying note said: "I recognize that the amount of counterpart funds issued was the standard advance for travel expenses. I did not, however, spend as much as is authorized for official travel. Hence, I am returning herewith 4,800 Belgian francs and 1,000 French francs." It was signed, W. R. Poage, Member of Congress.

Texas' 11th District Congressman was a member of a delegation which discussed agricultural trade relations in Paris and then went on to Brussels for a conference with European Economic Community officials on trade problems. As is customary, State Department officials had provided the local foreign currencies for use in paying hotel, meals, and other expenses. The Congressman simply said that any excess belonged to the governmet.

This was not the first time Congressman Poage has made refunds on travel allowances. In several previous years he made similar returns of monies to the government. On one occasion, Poage set a record by making a trip around the world, including two weeks in Australia, with a total cost to the government of only about $350, exclusive of transportation. This probably still stands as a record for economy.

Wood Wall Cover Looks, Feels Warm

An easy fix-up project that won't involve much cost or time is to panel one or two walls with western lumber. An added dividend comes from wood's high insulation value; its warmth is physical, as well as visual.

Boards of nominal one-inch thickness are much more effective as a wall insulator than decorator panels that usually are only ¼ to ⅜ inch thick.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
John C. White, Commissioner

The Worst Is Yet To Be . . . Down Again . . . Crying Time Again . . . Don't Forget.

Screwworm infestations are expected to be increasing throughout the state from now through summer. Recent rains, lack of a cold winter, and warmer weather are all reasons for the expected onslaught of screwworm problems this season.

Fly officials at the fly laboratory in Mission continue to urge livestock producers to:

1. Check your livestock regularly.
2. Treat wounds on livestock with approved screwworm-control remedies.
3. Delay surgery on livestock as long as possible.
4. Submit suspected samples to the fly laboratory at Mission for their verification.

In doing these things, livestock producers will be doing their part to hold down infestations at as low a level as possible.

THE MAY 1 CATTLE ON FEED report shows that the number of cattle in feedlots in the state is down four per cent from a month ago, even though it is 51 per cent above a year ago.

In the seven major feeding states, cattle feedlot numbers were up 35 per cent from last year's record low number.

The number of cattle on feed in Texas as of May 1 was 1,603,000.

TEXAS' SPRING ONION CROP prospects are up again. Based on May 1 prospects, the forecast is 45 percent above a year ago and three per cent more than the April 1 projection.

The state's summer onion crop is estimated to be 6,600 acres for harvest; this is 27 per cent above the 5,200 acres harvested last season.

The 6,600 acres for harvest include both crops in the Trans-Pecos and on the High Plains but excludes late onion varieties that will be harvested after July 1 in South Texas.

CITRUS PRODUCTION for the state based on May 1 projections is 47 per cent above the small crop of 11,800,000 boxes produced last season, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

Grapefruit production is expected to total 11,000,000 boxes, or 51 per cent more than last season. Early and mid-season oranges are estimated to be 30 per cent above last year, while Valencia oranges are forecast to be 61 per cent higher than last year.

Citrus harvest is now virtually complete.

DON'T FORGET TO APPLY for the Family Land Heritage Program. This honors farm and ranch families who have owned and operated the same land continuously 100 years or more through the family's descendants. Complete information may be obtained by writing the Texas Department of Agriculture, Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

'76 Peach Harvest Underway

AUSTIN--Harvest of the 1976 Texas peach crop is underway and indications are that production will increase 31 percent over last year, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

"Approximately 21 million pounds, or 437,500 bushels, are expected to be harvested this year, an increase over the 1975 harvest of 16 million pounds, or 333,333 bushels," White reported.

White noted that favorable weather during the growing season helped boost this year's production.

"In Gillespie County, hail damage was minimal, while East Texas orchards escaped damage from late freezes and hail," White said.

Harvest of early varieties got underway in Atascosa, Duval and Frio counties during the second week in May with Central and East Texas producers beginning harvest two weeks later.

ELECT
MAURICE LOWREY
CONSTABLE, PCT. 1

I have been a peace officer for 6 1/2 years. I am certified by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education. I am attending Temple Junior College and am majoring in Law Enforcement. With Police training schools and earned college credits, I have a total of 680 hours of police training.

Once again I want to thank those who voted for me in the primary. I ask again for your vote and influence in the June 5 run off. I want to serve my community as constable of Precint 1. I feel that I am qualified by training and experence to do the best job.

Thank You,

Terrace Maintenance Vital For Stopping Soil Erosion

Milam County now has approximately 2458 miles of terraces installed on the land. This represents enough terraces to completely cross the county 72 times and shows the large investment by local landowners to protect the land.

Terraces are still the most effective conservation practice known to stop soil erosion on sloping cropland and are still the only solution for sloping fields which are now cropped continually.

The question arises, after each cycle of heavy rainfall, as to why there is so much erosion seen in fields that have been terraced.

The answer has to be the lack of effective terrace maintenance by these landowners who cared enough to construct the terraces in the first place. Recently built terraces almost never failed if they were constructed to the accepted height and dimensions.

When normal farming operations wear the ridges down or plowing fills the channels, a very rapid decrease in the capacity of a terrace system takes place. The wearing down of a terrace ridge by as little as 3 inches reduces its water carrying capacity by 30%. When this height has been reduced by 6 inches only one-half, or less, of the needed protection remains.

People who farm their own rows over terraces can easily destroy all of their erosion protection in one crop year. The person who farms with the terraces will gradually reduce the protection level over a period of 3 to 4 years. This slows wearing down usually remains unnoticed until the terrace system overtops or breaks and considerable damage is done.

No structure or machine, known to man, is maintenance free. Ignoring a schedule of maintenance on anything will eventually lead to trouble or loss of effectiveness.

Houses need painting, roofs need patching, motor oil needs changing, and terraces, too, need plowing back up to their original size on a regular scheduled basis.

Terrace maintenance can be done with regular farm equipment such as moleboard or breaking plows. Quicker, and more efficient, maintenance can be done with a motor grader.

However accomplished, the terraces should be maintained and restored to their original condition in time for the normal spring rains.

This restoration should be scheduled, and accomplished on an interval of at least every 4 years.

If assistance is needed in evaluating this, or any other conservation related problem, contact any of the Soil Conservation Service personnel at their office in Cameron.

Tax Delay Possible For Farmer

Livestock producers who were forced to sell breeding or dairy animals due to drouth conditions during the winter and early spring may delay paying taxes on any profit.

According to an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, such a forced sale is an involuntary conversion, and any taxes on gains need not be paid if the producer replaces the stock within 24 months from the close of the tax year in which the animals were sold.

If the producer fails to make such replacement, he must file an amendment return with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for the year of the sale and pay the tax, points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga.

In the year of the sale, the producer must furnish the IRS evidence of drouth, the amount of profit from the sale, and the number of animals sold as well as the number he would have sold under normal conditions.

As evidence of drouth, the IRS accepts records of below-normal rainfall and poor grazing, newspaper clippings of U. S. Weather Bureau reports, and reports from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Losses from involuntary conversion are deductible in the year they are sustained.

Hayenga urges producers to check the Farmers Tax Guide before reporting forced sales of breeding or dairy stock. A copy may be obtained from the IRS or any county Extension office.

Outlook For Cattle Sales Can Differ

The outlook for the cattle industry varies somewhat depending on the source you wish to pursue.

Two varying viewpoints on the cattle situation are offered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Dr. Ed Uvacek, a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Both the USDA and Uvacek predict that cattle prices will continue to go up through the spring. It is on the degree of price rise and the length of the price rise upon which they differ.

Uvacek says an increase in marketings and slaughter of calves, yearlings and cull cows will begin in late June or early July, thus putting more beef on the market and resulting in lower fed cattle prices by later summer or early fall.

"Both fed and feeder cattle prices will turn downward toward the end of the April to June period after early spring gains. Further drops are expected between July and September," believes Uvacek. "The last quarter of the year should find prices averaging somewhere in the $38 to $42 range."

Contrary to this view, the USDA is predicting a decrease in the slaughter of cows, heifers, and non-fed cattle which, officials say, would cause a reduction in total beef output and would push fed cattle prices into the mid-to-upper $40s this summer. Prices would continue in the mid 40s for the last quarter of the year as well.

Furthermore, the USDA is predicting possible increases in cow and feeder cattle prices because of a smaller cow herd.

SAFETY CORNER

Turn Toward Trouble

If you're ever faced with running off the roadway, turn down slope into the ditch and slow down. When stopped, either back out or shift into low gear and drive out at a slight angle to the upslope. Get pulled out with another tractor if the ditch is relatively deep, steep, soft or rough. Turning up slope toward the road is a natural response, but instead of getting out of trouble can result in a deadly overturn.

ICA Plans Convention

Delegates, members, and guests from all corners of Texas are expected in Austin July 15-18 for the second annual state convention of the Independent Cattlemen's Association.

ICA President T. A. Cunningham of Goliad said the convention will serve as a launch pad for goals the association will pursue during the coming year in marketing legislative, and organizational programs.

"The convention is a time for unifying our efforts and renewing our determination to work for the betterment of the Texas cattle industry," Cunningham said.

"We have accomplished a great deal this past year, but many challenges lie ahead in everything from new land use control threats to tax reform and import problems," he said.

The convention will be held in Austin's Municipal Auditorium. The Hilton Inn will be the headquarters hotel.

CARL DALLY
Judge of the
Texas Court of Criminal Appeals

"Carl Dally has been a commissioner-in-aid to the court of criminal appeals for half a decade. He has argued before the U.S. Supreme Court and has had extensive experience in both the criminal and civil branches of the law. His opponent is a man with no judicial or appellate experience in criminal cases. We urge Texas Democrats eligible to vote in the June 5 runoffs to inform themselves of the qualifications of the candidates in this and all races. We urge them not to vote for a vaguely familiar name, but to vote for the best man. In the case of the runoff for the criminal appeals court, the best candidate is clearly Carl Dally."

AUSTIN AMERICAN-STATESMAN

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram calls Carl Dally "eminently qualified" and the Houston Chronicle says he is "uniquely suited" to serve on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Dally is also endorsed by newspapers in Dallas, Lubbock, Corpus Christi, San Angelo, Tyler, Bryan, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Victoria and Wichita Falls.

Ask your lawyer, your district attorney, any judge, or informed friend about the candidates in this important race. Then vote for the best man.

County Agent's Notes

Treatment Varies For Stunted Grain Sorghum

By Bill McCutchen

What to do about stunted grain sorghum . . . Let me first assure you that I don't know.

Some of the sorghum, due to standing water is so badly damaged that breakeven yields are not possible, but I do not believe that this is the ususal case. Sorghum plants have and will continue to respond to warm weather and sunshine and are picking up fertilizer and are making good progress.

Where sorghum is severly stunted, several farmers are considering shredding the crop, and trying to make a sucker crop. Is this wise? Again I don't know. Past experiences with shredding following hail damage and last year where Milo had drowned out have not been very encouraging.

Shredding following hail damage has normally resulted in about half an expected crop. Last year Charles Hensley shredded some of his water-logged grain sorghum and left some. He did not harvest the shredded sorghum while the unshredded grain sorghum made a light crop.

While I could not from past experiences recommend shredding or mowing, anyone who is going to do so should remember a few things.

First of all, you should be sure to get the growing point or you will just succeed in stunting the plant further by removing leaves and not cause it to sucker.

The growing point of much of the stunted sorghum is not much above the ground line and thus it is about impossible to knock the growing point without completely destroying the stalk.

The other necessity would be a good application of nitrogen following this operation. Where sorghum is yellow because of excess water you can bet there is no nitrogen available and another 60# or so of actual nitrogen would be necessay to make a crop. It may not make a crop anyway. I would certainly not make any guarantees.

Spraying beginning for overwintered weevils--Cotton throughout the county range from just emerging to the one-third grown square stage and when cotton is approaching the one-third grown stage a weevil application should be applied. Weevil traps indicate a rather large number of overwintered weevils in all sections of the county and these insects must be stopped before they are capable of initiating heavy new populations.

The practice recommended by the Milam County Crops Committee for the past several years is to apply Guthion for weevil control between the pin head size and one-third grown square stage and follow this application in 5 to 7 days with Di-methoate or Cygon for systemic fleahopper control.

Following the fleahopper application producers are encouraged to stay out of the fields with pesticides and let beneficials build up control the bollworm-budworm complex.

'75 Texas Dairy Income Shows Decline

AUSTIN--The $304.3 million gross income Texas dairy farmers received during 1975 reflected a two percent drop from 1974 earnings, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Total milk production for 1975 was 3.2 billion pounds, five percent below the 1974 total of 3.4 billion. Production per cow was 9,615 pounds.

Price per 100 pounds of milk averaged $9.45 with producers selling 3.1 billion pounds to plants and dealers. Cash receipts from the sale of milk totaled $293.4 million. This compared with 3.3 billion pounds which sold at an average price of $9.22 per 100 pounds during 1974.

The decreased production can be attributed to smaller dairy herds and decreased production per cow, White said.

The average number of milk cows on Texas dairy farms during the year was 335,000, a decline of 14,000 head from the previous year.

"Heavy herd culling, particularly of low-producing animals, during the late spring and early summer accounted for most of the decrease," White reported.

The farm value of milk produced, which also includes the value of fed milk calves, was approximately $307.3 million, compared with $314 million at the end of 1974.

Nationally, total cash receipts from milk sold totaled $9.6 billion with gross farm income from dairy products topping $10 billion.

Only a Dodge pickup can handle all you're cravin' for.

The lowest price.
The Dodge D100* is the lowest priced pickup made in America. (Based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices for six-cylinder half-ton pickups excluding state and local taxes, destination charges, and optional equipment.)

The best gas mileage.
In the latest EPA tests for half-ton pickups, a '76 Dodge D100 powered by a 225 six-cylinder engine with a manual transmission turned in an estimated mileage of 25 miles per gallon on the highway and 18 in the city. Of course, your actual mileage may vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your truck's condition and optional equipment.

The biggest standard payload.
The Dodge pickup can haul a load of up to 1,505 pounds. That's more than any other American made pickup. And the more you can carry, the fewer trips you'll have to make.

*Pickup shown: The Dodge D100 Adventurer will be priced higher because of optional equipment.

Choir Workshop Set In Houston

A major workshop for choral conductors and church choir directors will be presented by the Houston Symphony Chorale at Rice University in Houston from Friday evening, June 18 through Sunday afternoon, June 20.

Dr. Elmer Iseler, distinguished Canadian choral conductor, will lead five sessions on the preparation and performance of contemporary choral music. Varied work by Igor Stravinsky and Benjamin Britten and other composers will be studied in an informal rehearsal format.

Participants may sing in the workshop chorus or simply audit the sessions.

Dr. Iseler is founder-conductor of the Toronto Festival Singers and conductor of the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir. Widely acclaimed as a teacher-lecturer, he is an acknowledged authority on contemporary music. His Festival Singers ensemble has recorded the major choral works of Stravinsky under that composer's director and enjoys the patronage of such eminent musicians as Robert Craft, Glenn Gould, Seiji Ozawa, Peter Pears, Robert Shaw, and David Willcocks.

Dr. Iseler's previous work has been confined to Canada, Europe, and the U. S. East Coast. His Houston appearance will mark his first American workshop.

The workshop is sponsored by the Chorale as part of a program on continuing education for serious choral musicians in the Southwest. It is the group's third annual clinic. Previous conductors have been Robert Shaw and Roger Wagner.

The Chorale is the official chorus of the Houston Symphony Orchestra. The 150-voice volunteer choir is led by Donald Strong.

Fee for the weekend workshop is $25. Single session tickets are $5. Further information and registration forms may be obtained by contacting the Houston Symphony or Mrs. Sandy Graf, 8 Pine Tree Lane, Houston, 77024: 713-785-0866.

Cemetery Association To Meet

The annual meeting of the Travis Cemetery Association will be held Sunday, June 6 at 2 p.m. at the Travis Community Center.

A short memorial service and business meeting will be held.

Anyone interested in the cemetery is invited to attend the meeting.

The association is working to establish a permanent fund and those wishing to contribute to the Cemetery Fund may mail their contributions to the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. V. L. Wallace, P. O. Box 679, Rosebud, Texas 76570.

New Kitchen Offers Wine Rack Display

Kitchen remodeling offers a chance for more than just updating the cabinets and adding new appliances.

A relaxed, livable look can be added by installing a wine rack next to a stack of drawers at the end of a counter. Western wood boards set in at diagonals will form handsome bins for bottle display.

A similar treatment could be used as part of a room divider

Elderly Widows Defrauded

Persons posing as representatives of the State Department of Public Welfare (DPW) have defrauded two elderly widows in recent weeks.

According to a DPW spokesman, men identifying themselves as employees with the welfare department went to the homes of the women, both in their 80s, in Round Rock and Hillsboro. The men said that Medicaid premiums had gone up and that the women would have to pay several hundred dollars to remain eligible for the program. In one case, the woman signed a blank check; in the other, the woman handed over all the cash she had.

One suspect has been arrested and released on bond. It is feared that other recipients may have been similarly defrauded but haven't reported it, the spokesman said. The Department's Investigation Division is working with local law enforcement agencies on the case.

Welfare recipients, especially those receiving Supplemental Security Income or Medicaid, are advised to demand indentification of all persons claiming to represent DPW and to report any suspicious activity to the local welfare office.

Healing For Ceiling

A small, boxy room takes a new zest from a ceiling treatment applied with paint first in raspberry, blue, green or black, then with 2x2-inch strips of western pine or hemlock, finished clear and spaced one inch apart.

Colorful annuals in wood planter boxes brighten a porch or entry.

There he goes, walking into the future. But what direction will he take?

Whatever his choice, he will have to face problems and obstacles before his chosen goals can be reached.

One thing is sure, the years ahead hold much promise. One day he may be landing a jet on a carrier at sea, building a bridge in a foreign country, closing a big sale, or perhaps covering a fast-breaking news story. But to successfully reach his goal he will have to find the strength and wisdom to rise above the knotty problems of life.

Fortunately, he need not make his decisions alone. With the help of the Church, he can determine a course for successfully living his life in the world of tomorrow.

Speedway Turns Down Janet Guthrie

Texas World Speedway has refused any possible entry by Janet Guthrie into the Texas 500 on June 6 and at all other Speedway events this year.

Speedway President Richard Conole has written the United States Auto Club requesting the removal of her competition license and the removal of her car owner Rolla Vollstedt from its Board of Directors.

The issue is over Ms. Guthrie and Volstedt's intention to accept a $5,000 appearance offer from a NASCAR race track.

"I think this whole thing is a cheap publicity stunt on the part of the NASCAR track. I am appalled that a member of the Board of Directors of USAC would accept what amounts to public payola," Conole declared.

"I think that the public is sick and tired of payoffs. Top NASCAR drivers get paid to appear in a race that only they can win. Everyone knows that the other drivers are going broke and can't afford to race, but they have raced and supported racing every week. They would be crazy to run that race if Janet gets $5,000 to run against them. They should boycott it for their own good," Conole said.

"That whole thing has become a vaudeville act. That's not good for auto racing and we want no part of it," he declared.

Wardens Return To Classroom

It's back-to-school time for each game warden of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. In-service training, conducted by the department every three years, currently is in full swing.

Nowadays, game wardens are required to be experts in a variety of fields. Their initial training, when carefully screened and selected as candidates, is a rigorous and comprehensive five-month course at Texas A&M University. Graduates are schooled in such areas as game and fish laws, wildlife biology, ecology, firearms, first aid, and rescue techniques.

British Blonde Emerges As Tennis Sensation

By Jack Cavanaugh

NEW YORK

Reuter - A 20-year-old blonde from Britain who puts every ounce of her 108 pounds into a ferocious forehand has emerged as the sensation of this year's women's professional tennis circuit.

Not only is winsome Sue Barker threatening to overtake Virginia Wade as Britain's top women's player, but she is on the verge of moving into the top five world rankings, if indeed she has not already done so.

"Sue is definitely the biggest threat to the top players," the current queen of the courts, Chris Evert, told Reuters. "She's far more mature than any of the other young players."

Miss Evert, although only 21, is no longer considered among the new breed of women's tennis players, having played the international circuit since she was 16.

But she speaks with authority when it comes to Miss Barker. They have met three times this year, and in each instance Miss Evert has thoroughly extended in defeating the young Briton.

A capitvating 5-foot 5-inch pixie from Paignton, Miss Barker's daring style of play has endeared her to American galleries during her first year on the Virginia Slims tour.

Virtually unknown when she joined the U.S. women's circuit this year, although she has played on the British Wightman Cup team and at Forest Hills, Miss Barker won $25,400 to finish seventh in prize - money earnings. She also qualified for the round of 16 in the Virginia Slims championship in Los Angeles where she was beaten by Miss Evert in a close three-set match.

Her most notable victory this year was over Miss Wade, long the top - ranking player in Britain -- the first time she had defeated her 30 - year - old compatriot. Last November Miss Barker recorded an even more noteworthy triumph when she upset Evonne Goolagong in Paris.

The year before, in 1974, Miss Barker attracted considerable attention when she gained the semi-final of the Australian open championship where she was defeated by Miss Goolagong. She also captured the Tasmania championship that year.

A natural athlete, the fragile - looking short - haired blonde has a solid all-round game. Her backhand is generally consistent, her serve strong and more than adequate and her volley and overhead both impressive. Fleet afoot, she reacts extremely quick and covers the court well.

But it is her pulverizing forehand that has become the Barker trademark. By far the most potent shot in her arsenal, it may also well be the strongest forehand in women's tennis. Only Marita Redondo, another 20 - year - old, has a forehand that comes close in power to that of Miss Barker and to that of Miss Barker. And Miss Redondo's tends to be less consistent.

Furthermore, Miss Barker, unlike Miss Redondo, belts virtually every single forehand with everything she has. Even on a shortly - hit approach shot, the Briton unloads with her forehand, blasting the ball at a low trajectory that barely enables it to clear the net.

Typical of her play was her performance in a quarter-final match with Nancy Gunter at the recent Family Circle Magazine Cup tournament in Amelia Island, Florida.

Dove Season Was Poor One

Results of a statewide postcard survey of Texas mourning dove hunters are completed and figures show some 4.8 million doves were taken in the 1975-76 seasons.

Parks and Wildlife Department dove program leader Jim Dunks said the season was a rather poor one, something which should surprise few hunters who remember the scant number of doves available last fall.

"We estimate 203,278 dove hunters spent 916,800 days in the field during mourning dove seasons last year," said Dunks. "Hunter success was the poorest ever recorded since the department started its harvest survey in 1971."

Average daily bag of doves statewide was 5.4 birds; 5.5 by North Zone hunters and 5.2 by South Zone hunters. Across the state, hunters went dove shooting an average of 4.5 times, a record high even if they had only marginal success.

Dunks said hunters in North Central, and South Texas experienced a decline in success. Hunting success changed little from past years in the Pineywoods, Coastal Prairies, and High Plains. Edwards Plateau hunters had slightly better luck, and those in the Trans-Pecos posted a sizeable improvement.

"There was a general pattern of more doves killed farther west in the state," said Dunks. "Average doves bagged per hunt in the Pineywoods was 3.6 compared to 7.5 in the Trans-Pecos."

As is the case in past years, some 75 percent of the doves was taken in the North Zone season.

All-day hunting was permitted in the brief January segment of the South Zone season, but with no detectable change in the harvest.

Dunks speculated that declining harvest of mourning doves probably was due to a broad shift in agricultural practices.

"Farmers and ranchers in the western half of Texas are planting more dry-land grain and seed crops," said Dunks. "This probably accounts for a larger kill in western Texas; however, hunters from major urban areas such as Dallas and Houston are reluctant to travel great distances to hunt doves and the overall harvest declines as a result."

Dunks said nearly half of the doves killed in Texas are migrants from northern states and unharvested grain fields help to hold them in Texas.

"Early harvest of grain crops forces both migrant and some resident birds out of the state," said Dunks. "That and an increase in imporved pastureland (pastures planted in grass) in East and South Texas disperses doves and lowers the harvest."

Sunken Warships In Pacific Aid Studies

Massive air raids in the South Pacific 32 years ago are helping scientsts to learn more about coral formations.

When American carrier-based planes pounded Truk during World War II, they provided the coral-ringed lagoonwith scores of new reefs --sunken Japanese transports, warships, and supply craft

"Last year, marine biologist Sylvia A. Earle visited the now quiet waters to study marine growths on the drowned fleet.

In the May National Geographic. Dr. Earle describes how she and underwater photographer Al Giddings made repeated dives to the shattered ships, collecting and cataloging sample of the coral that has transformed the wrecks.

By Al Giddings National Geographic Society

MUZZLED BY CORAL, a tank sits on the encrusted deck of a Japanese transport at the bottom of Truk Lagoon. Knowing the date some 60 ships were sunk in World War II bombing raids on Truk, biologist Dr. Sylvia Earle is able to record the growth rates of marine organisms covering the sunken fleet.

"Like a Cathedral"

Looking up at the coral-encrusted mast and yard-arm of Fujikawa Maru, towering in 70 feet of crystal blue water, Dr. Earle felt as though she were in "a vast submarine cathedral."

On impulse, she scrawled on her slate: "Give nature time, and a sunken warship resembles a place of worship." To which her diving companion wrote in reply: "And guns have garlands."

Dr. Earle points out that the wrecks at Truk represent "not only the world's largest collection of artificial reefs but the only one whose age is precisely known. It offers invaluable clues to the growth rates and patterns of the abundant marine life that congregates around submerged reefs."

Marine plants are Dr. Earle's speciality. An experienced diver, she led a team of five women who spenttwo weeks in 1971 in Tektite II, the habitat scientists place on a reef at the bottom of Great Lameshur Bay in the Virgin Islands to test the ability of researchers to live and work underwater.

Mr. Giddings, who has made some 35 dives to the sunken Italian liner Andea Doria in the Atlantic, has television documentary, "Search for the Shinohara." He will spend this summer at Bermuda filming underwater scenes for the movie of Peter Benchley's book, "The Deep."

Aided by Trukese

At Truk, Dr. Earle and Al Giddings enlisted the aid of Kimuo Aisek, a Trukese scuba diver who as a teenager had watched the destruction of the Japanese ships caught in the lagoon.

Dr. Earle told him their task would be "to locate and tag the largest corals we can find. . .We'll also mark and measure small corals and return later to see how much they've grown."

They were startled by some of their finds, which included a 15-foot-high tree of black coral and another more tan five feet across that grew like a chrysanthemum on a ship's deck gun.

"To gain insight into short-term growth rates, I cleared a number of areas on several ships to bare metal," Dr. Earle writes. "In time the living mantle that I removed will be replaced, and growth rates base on a new starting point can be established."

The scientists catalogued several new species of plants and obtained useful information on coral growth, food chains, and the habits of reef-dwelling fishes and invertebrates.

Seeing how the coral softened the grisly relics of war, she concluded: "The sea tends her graves well."

UNFOUNDED Fears

People were once so afraid that automobiles would drive horses off the road that they proposed laws like this one: if a horse balked at passing a car on the road, the auto driver would have to take his car apart and conceal it in the bushes.

***

People in England were once afraid to eat eggplant. John Gerard summed up the feeling in his book on vegetables written in 1597: "Eggplants have a mischievous quality, the use whereof is utterly to be forsaken."

Although some people are afraid that nuclear power plants are dangerous, 31 eminent scientists, including 11 Nobel prize-winners, have come out with this statement: "We can see no reasonable alternative to an increased use of nuclear power to satisfy our energy needs."

***

When a person is so irrationally afraid of something that he cannot function normally, he is said to have a phobia. Some common ones include acrophobia, the fear of heights, and cardiophobia, the fear of heart disease.
